Gen. "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell Begins
His Trek Back Along the Burma Road

WHEN THE JAPS poured down into Burma, Chinese troops fighting under U. S. Lt. Gen. Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell were driven out. He made the forthright statement that it was "humiliating as hell" and vowed he would return some day. Here's a closeup of the tough American field commander as he headed back recently into the jungles of Burma.

BEHIND A PARAPET of sand getting a good look at Jap positions which were located across a stream in Burma just about 100 yards away, Gen. Stilwell listens attentively as Chinese Gen. Sun explains the strategy of the fighting taking place before their eyes. (International)

CITY'S BOND SALES ARE SHORT $45,000

Need That Much to Reach Goal; Only 55 Percent of E Bonds Sold

With two more reporting days before the deadline, Salem today needed $45,000 to reach its quota of $1,000,000 in the Fourth War Loan drive.

City Chairman Charles McCorkhill reported total sales up to this morning had reached $1,839,835. He urged individual purchasers to get their orders in as all large orders for securities have been completed, and none of the latter can be anticipated to help reach the goal.

E bond purchases were still lagging, with only 55.6 per cent of the quota of $38,000 reported. Sales minus 6,445, with a value of $288,265.25 or $230,234 short of the quota.

Throughout the county purchases have totaled 83 per cent of the quota of $6,283,060, County Chairman L. H. Colley reported this morning. Purchases came up over the weekend to bring the total to $5,043,788.25, but Colley was not hopeful that the county quota could be reached.

RABAUH GIVEN NEW BLASTING BYU S PILOTS

134 Tons of Explosives Are Dumped On Japanese New Britain Base

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 14.—Adm. William F. Halsey's Solomons-based plane squadrons continued their "hit 'em hard and often" tactics against the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, with a 134-ton bombing Friday, Allied headquarters announced today.

In this 12th day of raiding out of the past 14, three enemy planes were downed and probably five others knocked out of weak interception, while the Allies lost two fighters, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communiqué said.

Objects of Friday's four attacks were the Tobera and Vunakamau airfields, and the Vunapope supply area which returning pilots said "got the hell knocked out of it."

Besides heavy damage to air-drome runways and revetments by liberator heavy and Mitchell medium bombers, torpedo and dive-bombers demolished buildings, hit the breakwater and smashed six barges.

Communiqué this month have listed 179 Japanese aircraft destroyed at Rabaul, with 159 of these being shot down and the remainder smashed on the ground. Seventy-eight planes are also listed. Allied losses for the period stand at 21 planes.

American Marines, expanding their invasion holdings at Cape Gloucester, northwestern New Britain, have taken large quantities of equipment and ammunition abandoned by the Japanese in the Borgen bay area, the communiqué said.

Yesterday's communiqué said the Leathernecks were finding many enemy dead from starvation or disease.

This was mindful of experience of Australian troops in New Guinea, who found hundreds of Japanese dead from starvation after Allied air and sea patrols had smashed enemy coastal barge routes.

Liberators made a 1,800-mile round trip flight to bomb Kendari airdrome on Celebes island, in the Netherlands East Indies, and others struck at Dill on Timor island, 400 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

Germany's Aircraft Output Hit Hard By U. S. A. F. Bombings

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—American heavy bombers pinpointing German aircraft factories have cut the heart out of fighter plane production in the Reich, it was reported officially today.

Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the War Production board, announced that the War department had informed him United States army air forces raids had reduced Germany's capacity to produce fighter planes by 40 per cent. Previous official announcements had suggested German aircraft plants had suffered heavily under combined Allied bombings, but today's announcement was the first that fixed the extent the damage done exclusively by USAAF raids.

Wilson's announcement indicated the USAAF in the European theater has grown tremendously in recent weeks and no longer has "hit the brother" status in relation to the Royal Air Force, judged by damage inflicted on the enemy.

Wilson said the most recent raids, not included in the Army report, had cut down Nazi fighter plane output even further than the 40 per cent reduction officially disclosed.

Our Production Gains

"The recent series of operations against Dessau, Braunschweig, Halberstadt, Greater Frankfurt, Fockenheim, Hochst, Leipzig, Offenbach and Ludwigshafen aircraft manufacturing facilities have been instrumental in reducing further Germany's aircraft production potential," Wilson said.

Wilson's unusual disclosure of the success of USAAF operations against German plane factories came in a statement declaring that as Axis production was knocked out, U. S. aircraft production was just getting into full stride.

Wilson said, "mass production of military aircraft in American plants has resulted in reduction of construction time by 90 per cent. An early fighter plane type required 157,000 man hours to complete. Mass production cut that time to 7,800 man hours by the time the 1,000th plane left the line. A four-engine bomber took 200,000 man hours for construction in its early production stages but this time was reduced to 13,000 man hours for the 2,000th plane."

PATTERSON QUILTS OHIO DEFENSE POST

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—The resignation of Lt. Col. Harry J. Patterson of Cincinnati as state salvage administrator and State Defense Council finance officer, effective Tuesday, was announced by State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone.

Patterson has held the defense council post for two years. No reason was given for the resignation.

Patterson was the center of a still ending legal fight involving the Federal Social Security board's right to withhold $7,200 from the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation on grounds Patterson's employment violated the Hatch act, a law which forbids persons paid with federal funds from engaging in political activity.

In a federal court hearing in January, 1943, Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert questioned the board's authority to withhold the money—twice Patterson's salary—and contended the defense council was a state agency not under federal jurisdiction.

The U. S. Civil Service commission in 1941 ordered Patterson's removal as manager of the Cincinnati BUC office because of asserted political activity. Patterson resigned and was later employed by the Defense council.

In 1942 Patterson initiated Ohio's sugar and automobile rationing programs and remained in charge until these activities were absorbed by the Office of Price Administration.

As chief of inspection for the defense corps and industrial plant protection forces he was responsible to a large extent for perfection of the protection of Ohio in the event of enemy action or civil emergency. He is also an officer in the Ohio State guard.

Finland Believed Seeking Peace With Soviet Russia

(By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, Feb. 14.—An expectancy of some concrete development in Finnish-Russian relations, perhaps within the next two or three days, was evident here today despite the lack of any official indication Finland actually was seeking a way out of the war.

From Helsinki came a report that the Finnish capital was awaiting momentarily some definite governmental step toward peace as the Social Democratic party continued heavy pressure on the nation's leaders to seek terms.

Speculation that something may be afoot was given a fresh fill yesterday by the arrival here of Leo Ehrenrooth, Finnish minister of the interior. He had been preceded to Stockholm by Juhani Paasikivi, who helped negotiate the Finnish-Russian peace treaty of 1940, and Elias Erkkö, former Finnish foreign minister.

Ehrenrooth ostensibly came here on a mission in connection with the evacuation to Sweden of Finnish children living in areas which might be subject to Russian bombing.

As a cabinet member, he conceivably could play an important part in peace talks.

There were indications Finland probably was feeling her way cautiously for fear of German reprisals. This was reflected in a dispatch from Helsinki quoting a conservative member of the Finnish parliament as saying:

"We must see the situation only from the point of view of what is best for our own country. No one here wants to share Italy's fate."

It is known that there is considerable anxiety in Helsinki that Finland might become "another Italy," particularly in view of the feeling the Germans might try to hang on to the nickel and copper mines in northern Finland regardless of developments.

Helsinki advices reported a continuous round of government conferences was being held in the Finnish capital, but these activities were surrounded with great secrecy.

There was some speculation here that Vaino Tanner, the anti-Russian Finnish finance minister, might leave the cabinet along with several other members in order to give the government a complexion more favorable in Russian eyes.

It was suggested Paasikivi himself might be a likely prospect for premier in event of a shakeup.

It was learned here Tanner absented himself from a meeting of the social democratic party's executive committee in Helsinki Friday, at which party members in the government were directed to do everything possible to ask Russia for peace terms.

Also absent from the meeting were minister of communication Vaino Salovaara and minister of social affairs Aleski Aaltonen.

Players Club Cast Ending Rehearsals For 'Room Service'

A large cast of Salem Players club members will present the comedy hit play by John Murray and Allen Boretz, "Room Service," as their second stage production Wednesday and Thursday nights at the High school auditorium. Curtain time is 8:30.

Directed by Mrs. Paul Lau, with W. F. Ross as stage manager, the play cast includes: Robert Snyder, Franklin Smith, W. F. Ross, Walter B. Null II, William Bodendorfer, Mrs. Ann McIntire, Elwood Hammett, Katherine Gartner, Ora E. Anderson, Mrs. Harold Wyckoff, Mrs. Paul Lau, B. W. Dixon, Isabelle Lockhart, Mrs. R. B. Vance.

Elwood Hammett, one of the leading characters in the play, has the role of Leo Davis, guileless small-town boy, author of a play about to be produced on Broadway. Actually, he is the author of a play, a three-act comedy "I'd Rather Be President."

Writing the play around which the production is built leads the young playwright through—among other things—a case of measles, a ravenous appetite, a simulated suicide escape only in red flannels, a narrow escape from arrest and a romance that is on the rocks most of the time.

"Room Service" has other troubled characters, portrayed by members who will be new to Salem audiences. Among those appearing for the first time for the Players club will be William Bodendorfer, Katherine Gartner, Ann McIntire, Isabelle Lockhart, Elwood Hammett, Mrs. Wyckoff, Mrs. Lau and Mrs. Vance. Ross, Smith, Null and Anderson appeared in the previous production, "The Ninth Guest."

Bridge Sector Is Recaptured By Fifth Army

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 14.—Fighting of a see-saw character but of lessened intensity has marked the Allied perimeter at Anzio in the past 24 hours, Allied headquarters announced today after weathering a weekend crisis.

Regaining the initiative in part after the blanketing of Allied air support by bad weather had given German armored units an edge, British troops drive forward and recaptured a bottleneck bridge over the railway west of Carroceto (Aprilia), 10 miles north of Anzio, with the support of tanks.

Emphasizing the indeterminate nature of the battle, however, the Germans again occupied the factory a half mile east of Carroceto after days of fierce fighting in which the battered packing houses and silo-like structures of Benito Mussolini's agricultural enterprise changed hands four times.

While Allied air forces again struck the German ring about the bridgehead and other objectives with the fury of 800 sorties, American troops paid with blood and sweat for a 200-yard advance in Cassino, 60 miles to the east, battering down each German stronghold in a house-to-house struggle.

The Germans, too, still held the ancient towers and buildings of the Benedictine monastery atop the hill west of Cassino.

Following Saturday's Allied announcement that the Pope's summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, just north of the Anzio bridgehead, was saturated with Germans and therefore subject to bombing, the Allies stated the Mt. Cassino monastery was being used by the Germans as a part of their fortifications as well as an observation post and that it might have to be taken by direct assault.

But there was no report here, contrary to Rome radio declarations, that the abbey had yet been bombed.

"The German communiqué declared an Allied penetration to the center of Cassino had been eliminated. Rome was bombed last night, it declared."

Red Cross Station Attacked An official announcement said the Germans again had bombed an Allied transit hospital near Anzio Saturday night and caused casualties. Previously the Germans had bombed one hospital and shelled another, both plainly marked with the Red Cross insignia.

Another announcement said the British and Americans had taken well over 2,000 German prisoners in the beachhead fighting since the landings Jan. 22.

Since the Allies pulled in their forward units and formed their present perimeter around the beachhead on Feb. 3, the line has been firmly held and has remained substantially unchanged despite strong German counter-attacks along the northern flank, a headquarters commentator stated.

German attacks have diminished in the past 24 hours. They were particularly ominous Friday when German armor began jabbing at the Allied flanks, with rain, gales.

HOLLAND HIT BY U. S. BOMBS

Force of German Planes Manages to Drop Incendiaries Near London

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 14.—U. S. Thunderbolt fighter-bombers pounded the German fighter base at Gilze-Rijen in Holland today without loss, after German night raiders had scattered incendiaries over London in an attack touted by Berlin as made by "several hundred planes."

The Nazi planes dived low under a heavy barrage to lay incendiary bombs on parts of London.

The Berlin raid, seeking to save the bomb-buffed German homefront, declared London was sowed with large fires in "another concentrated attack" on the center of the capital.

London crowds milling along the blackened walks and streets in the usual after-theater throngs watched the aerial fireworks, mostly well off into the suburban areas, and found the attack in no greater force than last month when the enemy sent some 80 bombers against London and parts of south-east England.

Most of the bombs fell in the coastal area, causing casualties and damage.

The British estimated the total raiding force at 50 to 60 planes, of which only some 15 reached London. Six were shot down, five over England, and one after returning to France.

Thunderbolt fighters escorted the fighter-bombers striking into Holland in the 15th operation of the strategic air force in 18 days. No enemy planes were met.

The daylight raid followed a heavy attack Sunday on the invasion coast of northern France, in continuation of a two-months offensive against Nazi installations there.

Escorted by fighters, Flying Fortresses, Liberators, Marauders and RAF Typhoons battered mystery targets in the area for the 41st day out of the last 55.

Four heavy bombers and two fighters were lost. Six enemy aircraft were destroyed in these operations and a seventh by RAF Typhoons on offensive patrol over another section of France.

The blows against the invasion coast followed up similar attacks Saturday.

LIEUT. LLEWELLYN IS WAR PRISONER

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Lieut. Gordon C. Llewellyn, bombardier reported missing four weeks ago, is a prisoner of war in Germany, relatives here learned today through information secured through the Red Cross.

The officer, listed by the War department as missing in action after a bombing mission over Greece in December, was wounded and is now a prisoner of war, according to the message from the provost adjutant's office. The dispatch said further details would arrive by letter.

The youth, whose wife, the former Virginia James of East Liverpool, lives in Akron, made his home here as a child with his aunts, Miss Edith Llewellyn of Morton st. and Miss Mildred Llewellyn, Akron nurse.

Sergt. Miksic, 23, Missing In Action

Staff Sergeant Joseph Miksic, Jr., 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miksic of the Goshen road, is missing in action following an Allied raid on Germany, the War department has advised his parents.

Sergt. Miksic, who has been in the service 18 months, was a turret gunner on a U. S. bomber. He has been overseas four months. Before his induction he was employed at the Ravenscroft arsenal.

The War department said the Salem man was lost on a raid over Germany Jan. 11.

DEMONSTRATION IN ITALY

It is necessary for the United States to be prepared for the eventuality of bad news from the Anzio bridgehead area in Italy. The operation undertaken there with the British has given Germany its first opportunity in many months to take advantage of the Allies; it is Germany's best chance to score a victory since the minor rout of British and Italian troops in the Dodecanese islands early this winter.

Naturally, Hitler and his generals are doing everything possible to stage a demonstration in Italy. A victory for them there would hurt Allied prestige in Italy and throughout Europe. It would hurt Allied morale. It would be a bad omen for the coming invasion. It would cheer up the German civilians being blasted out of their homes by bombing raids. The Germans would be fools not to make the most of their chance to exploit the advantages of their own interior lines of communication against the Allies' outside supply lines.

This is the way wars are fought—by taking advantage of weaknesses. When the Allies established the Anzio bridgehead, they apparently underestimated their enemy's strength and thereby invited what now is being reported in the communiques. The bad news does not mean the Germans can do what they obviously want to do. It does mean they are going to go as far as they can. The Allies are facing an alert, resourceful enemy. It will not pay to underestimate his ability to take advantage of their mistakes.

IT'S LIKE MALARIA

If the British want an object lesson in the danger of under-rating the provincial pride of most Americans in their own country, they will get it through ill-advised and tactless opinionating on the national election to be held this year.

This provincial pride—and it's nothing to be ashamed of—is like malaria. No amount of treatment ever quite eliminates the possibility that it may become acute. And the one thing calculated to bring on influence is being brought to bear on an American, a galloping attack is popular suspicion that foreign election.

The London Daily Mail, which has advised its readers that if Britishers want President Roosevelt to carry on for a fourth term they shouldn't say so because "you have no idea how sensitive the American people are," is on the right track. Americans do not presume to tell the British who should be their prime minister because they admit that's Britain's business, and they hope the British may see it the same way.

ANNIVERSARY OF A DISCOVERY

It is incredible that only 10 years ago the army air corps was preparing to make the discovery that in equipment and training it was unprepared to carry out a presidential order to fly United States mail, after the cancellation of air mail contracts.

By hindsight, the tragedy which followed revealed to the government and to the people that the air army of the nation's fighting forces had not been developed sufficiently to guarantee national security. The implications of the experience were not grasped quickly; the immediate effect was confined to castigation of the government for a decision which was not then and never could be satisfactorily explained. But it did give army airmen the proof they needed that courage alone was not substitute for equipment and highly specialized training.

When it is considered today that tens of thousands of vastly improved planes are flown daily under conditions not much better than those which scandalized the country in 1934 with an epidemic of fatal accidents, national progress in aviation becomes measurable against a starting point. Since 1934, the United States has climbed from a position in military aviation well down in the list to the world's foremost aerial power.

ATTITUDE FOR ELECTION

There is no mystery about the upsurge in political speechmaking. Candidates and groups of candidates are trying to get and hold public attention with their declarations. This is 1944—representative democracy at work.

Fatuous and absurd suggestions to the contrary notwithstanding, public issues will be discussed thoroughly in public, where they should be discussed. The people will get the benefit of some new viewpoints and also the benefit of some old viewpoints stated with new vigor.

Regardless of predisposition to favor one candidate against another—a wholly normal habit among the American people—everybody will get the benefit of an airing of views. Only those far advanced in the creeping paralysis of authoritarian thinking would dream of exchanging this for any other system in the world. Only those too glib for the safety of free government will take seriously the suggestion that to talk about the people's problems is dangerous in wartime. And only those who never understood the principle of totalitarian government will fail to see through the misleading argument that "unity" and free expression of opinion somehow have become incompatible in the United States of America.

The attitude for a national election in wartime is no different from the attitude which has helped sustain the republic from its beginning. The election is a normal process in self-government; it is the way the United States perpetuates its freedom. It is the citizen's quadrennial opportunity to pass on the merits of the administration of his national government. He is entitled to his prejudices, which have their place in party government, but he owes it to himself to exercise them for some more useful purpose than satisfaction of his own intolerance.

Intrinsically, the national election process is a debate, with the decision being made by the listeners. While it is not to be imagined that more than a few votes remain undecided until the last moment—there is no indecision, for instance, in the Democratic south or in Republican Vermont—those few wield political power far beyond their numerical importance. They are the ideal citizens of a republic, because without them there would be no compulsion on either political party to present issues at all. There would be no choice in an election but the difference between Yes and No, in the style made famous by Hitler when he professed to be willing to let the people pass on his leadership as long as they voted "Ja."

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, February 15

JUDGING by the mutual and lunar aspects this day may be fairly successful and lucrative, especially if well organized strategies, shrewdness and wariness be exercised. While the trend is propitious, the pitfalls and dangers through underhand, crafty or intriguing factors may lure to defeat and unusual entanglements of a sordid or vicious nature. Be careful with writings, contracts and speech as well, lest there be misconception, fraud and deception. Keep alert.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have the opportunity to move ahead into lucrative and constructive grooves, mainly by keenness, and shrewd tactics rather than boldy open and strenuous programs. All, however, call for vigilance, precaution and wide open eyes, lest there be subtlety, intrigue and behind-the-scenes plots and schemes to ensnare the unwary or too confiding. Be particularly careful with papers, correspondence and documents, as they might be subject to misconception, even fraud and trickery. Be keen in all relations.

A child born on this day may have abilities of a shrewd, subtle and crafty character, with opportunities for exceptional success. It will however be easily victimized or duped.

Our prisoner is too lenient in comparison to that given our prisoners by other nations.—Kimachi Yamamoto, Jap vice minister for occupied Asia.

Even from the standpoint of serving humanity, it is necessary to make a reasonable profit if this private enterprise economy of ours is to survive.—Vice President Henry Wallace.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Armpit the Site of Many Troubles

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE AXILLA is the scientific name for it. Armpit to you. It is the site of a good many troubles peculiar to itself. Most doctors, especially young doctors, don't know anything about it mostly because they haven't paid any attention to it, or studied it. But they should because the armpit is one of those places just naturally born and fated for trouble. It is a blind alley, an end street, backwater, a nook, a cranny—and in nature a blind alley, end street, etc., is a natural breeding place for trouble.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

My old friends, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, with the help of my other old friend, Dr. Doerchuk, are planning to write a treatise on the axilla. Dr. Doerchuk is valuable in this enterprise because he deals with the ordinary troubles of the ordinary person. The trouble with the young doctor just out of school and the armpit is that in his school days all he hears about are the big diseases—the ones that require complicated treatments. If a doctor is going to do anything so important as lecture to a medical class he selects some such subject as has to do with enlargement of the spleen and liver, accompanied by hemorrhage and shock. He doesn't descend to showing an armpit.

Sweating Armpits
It reminds me of the incident of my first patient. I sat around a long time in a well appointed office. But finally I trapped one—a mild, trusting old lady. I said—"Madam, what is the trouble?" If she had had pernicious anemia or amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or anything big I was ready for her. But she said—"Doctor, I have sweating armpits"—and I was lost. I didn't even know any treatment had been advised for that.

Nature has provided the armpit with a wad of hair as a cushion which is a good thing between two folding and touching walls of skin. But she has also provided it with a mess of sweat glands. I don't know what good they do, but they make trouble. Hyperhidrosis, which is excessive sweating, and more annoying bromidrosis, which is malodorous sweating, make their special home in the axilla. Fortunately there has been discovered an extremely satisfactory method of dealing with these conditions and that is exposure to the x-rays. In the armpit especially the x-ray can be applied without danger of unfortunate sequelae.

Excessive Hand Sweating

The amount of x-ray necessary to kill off the sweat glands from an excessive sweating hand is so much that it causes disagreeable atrophic changes, but the skin of the axilla is delicate and radio sensitive and responds well to small fractional x-ray doses. Then the consequences which may be hair loss and pigmentation are not noticed in the axilla. It takes about four doses and the first effect is to make the skin too dry, but in a few weeks regeneration occurs and all is comfortable.

A special disease called Fox-Fordyce disease affects the skin of the armpit. It occurs mostly in old people with their thin, senile skin, and is an itching, scaly eczema. The use of corpus luteum extract and x-ray gives prompt relief.

Ring-worm lights in the armpit. Standard remedies for ring-worm—such as Whitfield's ointment, usually are curative, but in stubborn cases the x-ray has to be used.

A warm, hairy, moist region like the armpit is a natural breeding place for germs.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—Republican party leaders are predicting General Douglas MacArthur will be a factor at the Chicago convention, although few go so far as Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), in believing he might be drafted for the presidential nomination.

One influential Republican said it was not unlikely the party nominee might propose MacArthur as secretary of war, army chief of staff, or as presidential military advisor.

No one here professes to know how MacArthur would look upon any proposal that would force him to leave his command in the Southwest Pacific. Most party leaders believe, however, MacArthur would accept a presidential nomination, but are uncertain how he would react to other suggestions.

CONGRESS

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) predicts the senate foreign relations committee will quickly endorse a bill, previously voted 338 to 54 by the house, authorizing American expenditures up to $1,350,000,000 to support the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

Legislation to renew life of the Commodity Credit Corp. until June 30, 1945, but ending the administration's food price subsidy program, tops the house program. The senate passed the measure last week, and the house is expected to lose little time in giving its approval. White House veto of the bill is expected.

TAXES

The treasury department reported to Congress today that thousands of individuals and corporations received refunds on tax payments during the fiscal year ending last June 30, totaling almost $7,000,000. The bulk of the refunds were over-assessments of income taxes.

Meanwhile, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee has proposed that the super-tax on business should be "drastically reduced." Another member of the committee, Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), went further in advocating repeal of the excess profits tax on corporations when hostilities end. Both senators gave as the objectives the continuation of the free enterprise system after the war.

THE LITTLE DOG BARKED by ANNE ROWE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
After an instant of stunned inability, Bill Parris followed her, half-heartedly: "Linda—Linda! Wait for me! What's the big idea?"

And Sondra gasped indignantly:
"Well! Of all the rude—! Don't lead her, Burns, honey. She's aching but a stupid kid with no manners, and deserves a spank—"

While the returning Bill made attempts at apologizing eagerly: "I'm awfully sorry I let her in for this, Uncle Burns. She must have thought you were protecting her!" Which statement brought on more sputtering comments from Sondra, lavishly laced with "honey's" and "sweets".

Orne Paulsen and I listened to it with great embarrassment.
When he leaned against the open door with raised eyebrows and a muttering Loring's in insurmountable indignation, Inspector Pettengill would say when I related the incident to him. Until, at last, Burns Loring ended the scene by getting out of his steamer chair, frowny and carefully and smiling apologetically.

The young lady had every right to resent my remarks. They were bad taste. I had no business to harass her stage name or suggest a substitute. Least of all my own name, Loring said with quiet firmness. "Besides, she is young. And youth is opinionated. So—shall we drop the subject? If you'll excuse me, I'll go over to the house for a drink, and a rest. No, Sondra, my car, Bill will take me home. You go with Mrs. Turner and join your colleagues in the Snack Hutch."

The Snack Hutch was jammed with people filling the booths, lining the lunch counter, cluttering the space between. Not only the small cast of my play was there, but every actor of the much more elaborate present offering, plus a large quota of admiring fans. The latter was deafening.

We were lucky to get seats. Orne Paulsen, scouting ahead, beckoned us to the last booth where, miraculously, Wells Colby was holding three empty places. "In case you people should turn up," he explained politely. And presently we'd been served and were enjoying the day's special: a luscious hot lobster sandwich drenched with melted butter.

Our getting a booth and the lobster sandwich were the highlights of this, my first sleuthing expedition. Lunchtime at the Snack Hutch was definitely not conducive to confidences, seeing one had to shout to make oneself understood.
So the result of the venture was nil, so far as news was concerned.
In fact, I have away information instead of getting it.

Toward the end of the meal, Wells Colby yelled at me across the table: "How's the valiant Stray getting along? Any news bulletin today?"

And I shrieked back: "He's fine.
I've paid him a visit this morning, with Inspector Pettengill. He's still half doped, and in a sort of strait jacket, but he'll soon be barking and jumping again. You wait and see: he'll get his man yet."

I regretted the words the moment I'd said them. Especially when I discovered, on my way out, that Linwood, Alden, Vickery and a fourth man—the publicity manager of Fern Cove—were in the next booth.

But I told myself consolingly that they couldn't have heard what I'd said in this din. And that it didn't matter if they had. And went on to the inn, in search of the absent
Linda and, possibly, Ada.

Linda wasn't hard to find. I could see her from the lobby, sitting in one of the window niches of the dining room over a lonely lunch. I was going to her, when I heard Inspector Pettengill call my name from the door of the manager's office.

He was beaming on me and everything in sight when I followed him into the small private room behind the desk. But its other occupants—the Kilborns—were far from sharing his radiance.
They actually glowered at me, as if I'd committed a crime, when the Inspector invited them cheerfully:

"Well, here she is. Say your little piece, Mr.—or Mrs.—Kilborn."

There was a short, mute consultation between the couple. Then Josie Kilborn took the floor.

"Inspector Pettengill here don't understand the summer inn business," she informed me acidly.
"Thinks it oughter be run like a year-round hotel, and says I overcharged you for your rooms. He ain't right. But I don't want no trouble. So you can have half your money back, Mrs. Turner."

I gaped at the Inspector, horrified by what he had done. In the kindness of his heart, doubtless.
Nothing was so sure to infuriate the Kilborns, and make them hamper the investigation, as forcing them to disgorge a fat profit they'd just swallowed.

"Oh, but the Inspector is wrong!"
I blurted out in protest. "The price of the rooms has been set. You haven't seen them, Inspector. They are lovely. Quite the nicest rooms I've ever had at an inn! Oh, no, Mrs. Kilborn. I wouldn't dream of accepting a refund. Please don't think of it!"

The transformation of the two fat, pasty faces before me was ludicrous. The gloom disappeared.
They smiled. At each other. At me. Even at the Inspector—but differently in his case: in triumph.
And then had another mute parley,
after which Josie cleared her throat, heaved her ample bosom and—talked.

"I always thought you was a lady!" she approved. "And to show I appreciate the way you act, I'll do my share, too, and throw that little dog you crave in with the rooms. With no extra charge outside, say—fifty dollars for what he cost me to feed."

"That's terribly kind of you," I assured her—over the Inspector's murmured: "Must have a big appete-tite, that little pooch."

Josie Kilborn acknowledged her own kindness with a nod. "I know, Mrs. Turner. My heart's too soft.
Could gotten a big price for Stray.
He's a valuable dog. But one good turn deserves another. I say. And so now that we're friends—she let the word sink in heavily—"I tell you something else the Inspector couldn't dragged outen me otherwise." She lowered her voice to a mysterious whisper. "They was a conspiracy against your play. Land sakes alive, I was even made an innocent party to it! But that Mrs.
Parris. She asked me over to tea, sweet's pie, so we could plan a little joke on you: her'n me, and Mr. Alden and Mr. Vickery. They was sore on the gentleman wrote your play with you. And she—guess she don't like Mr. Loring being so thick with Miss Marshall.
And no play of yours means no part for Miss Marshall to act. And so she says, if I'd put you and the leading lady away off in that old inn, maybe you'd feel scary and leave."

"And maybe she was going to help the scary feeling along with a little spooking?" the Inspector suggested.

"Maybe," Josie assented. "Least-ways, I heard Mr. Alden say suth-ing about an owl hooting and a couple ghosts dancing in the moonlight. Joking like, you know. But I guess he meant him'n Mr. Vickery would do the dancing, in a couple old sheets. They said nothing though of killing old Mack. No, sirree, they didn't! It makes me that mad I could wring their necks!

Fooling me'n Frank—Mr. Kilborn here—into cleaning and readying that dusty old place, and then go and kill the best worker we got!"

"That's right. They's no one left like old Mack was," Frank Kilborn agreed mournfully. "Took so much a day and worked, when the others want pay by the hour, and loaf."

Josie added spitefully: "Ayah.
And now that I done what they asked, and poor old Mack's dead, they act like I was dirt. That mealy-mouthed Mrs. Parris now.

When I call her up on the phone last night and say, will she come and have tea with me today—figuring as we oughter talk this here murder and accident over between us—she says she's sorry but she got a headache, and don't think it'll be better today. Or tomorrow, either."

"Inspector Pettengill! How could you ask them to give me back my money! Imagine how they might have acted if I'd taken it!" I wailed, once we were out of the Kilborns' office and the inn.

"Worked out all right, didn't it?"
the Inspector asked dryly.
"It did. It worked out wonderfully well," I admitted. "But if I hadn't protested, if I'd thought I had to take the money because you wanted me to—"

"But you didn't. And I knew you wouldn't be that foolish," he twinkled at me.

It made me gasp.
"You mean, you counted on my refusing it?"

He nodded. "Sure did. Nothing like first getting people riled, and then letting 'em off. Makes 'em feel good toward the letter-offer," he explained with amused satisfaction. "So now we know they's been a conspiracy and can track it down without costing Ada Trefethen her job. Come on, we're going visiting, and confront the conspirators with their victim. We'll start with the two would-be ghosts in sheets. And on our way, you may tell me what you found out, mean-times."

Captured by Locusts

NEW DELHI—A northern India airbase was captured and held captive a whole day by a swarm of locusts and the forces using the field could do nothing but stand and look on.

The locusts settled in such swarms that the field could not be used, and flew over it in such tight formation that flying was impossible. After they "refueled" on all the greenstuff on the field they took off again.

Pin-up picture for the man who "can't afford" to buy an extra war bond...

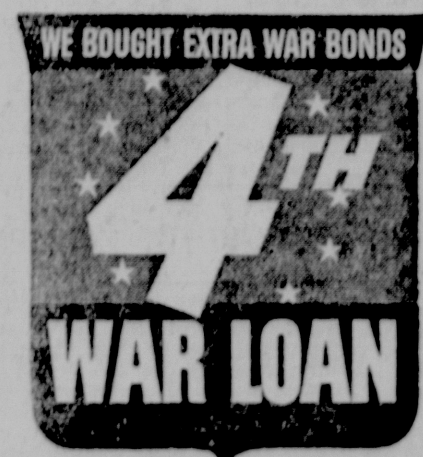

YOU'VE HEARD people say: "I can't afford to buy an extra War Bond." Perhaps you've said it yourself... without realizing what a ridiculous thing it is to say to men who are dying.

Yet it is ridiculous, when you think about it. Because today, with national income at an all-time record high... with people making more money than ever before... with less and less of things to spend money for... practically every one of us has extra dollars in his pocket.

The very least that you can do is to buy an extra $100 War Bond... above and beyond the Bonds you are now buying or had planned to buy. In fact, if you take stock of your resources and check your expenditures, you will probably find that you can buy an extra $200... or $300... or even $500 worth of War Bonds.

Sounds like more than you "can afford"? Well, young soldiers can't afford to die, either... yet they do it when called upon. So is it too much to ask of us that we invest more of our money in War Bonds... the best investment in the world today? Is that too much to ask?

Miss Hans, Lieut. Tetlow Are Married

Miss Louise Hans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew L. Hans of Damascus, and Lieut. Alva Tetlow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Tetlow, Sr., of Sebring, were united in marriage at 8 p. m. Friday, Feb. 3, at the Trinity Methodist church in Tallahassee, Fla., by Rev. Anderson. The bride was lovely in a white tulle dress styled with a brush train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown headpiece embroidered with seeded pearls.

She was attended by her sister, Josephine, whose dress was of pink tulle. Both carried colonial bouquets.

Lieut. Abel Fraser of South Carolina, a friend of the groom, served as best man.

The bride's mother was dressed in brown and white ensemble and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Tallahassee Country club.

The bride is a graduate of Goshen Township High school and before her marriage was employed in the office of the Damascus Lumber Co.

Lieut. Tetlow is a graduate of Sebring high school and Bluffton college.

Chaplin Surrenders After Indictment

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—Charles Chaplin, movie comedian, appeared at the U. S. marshal's office today to surrender to a grand jury indictment charging him with violating the Mann act and conspiring to defraud his former protegee, 23-year-old Joan Berry, of her civil rights.

Chaplin obviously was nervous and he refused to pose for photographers while he was being fingerprinted. Later, however, he consented to look into the cameras as he signed some documents.

The comedian was wearing a cream-colored sports coat, tan slacks, a yellow sweater, a sport shirt buttoned at the collar, and he carried a brown topcoat. His counsel, Jerry Giesler, one of southern California's outstanding criminal lawyers, accompanied him.

Capt. W. W. White of the Beverly Hills police and Robert Arden, radio announcer and friend of Chaplin, also appeared for fingerprinting at the marshal's office. They are charged only with conspiracy to defraud Miss Berry of her civil rights after her arrest on a vagrancy charge in Beverly Hills 13 months ago.

Cold Wave Brings Gas Shortage In Some Parts of Ohio

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—The Monday wash went undone and bathing was taboo today as a gas shortage hit Ohio, closing war plants and making thousands of workers idle.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. announced increased use of gas for heating homes during the current cold wave had caused an "acute emergency" that forced it to cut off the supply of 150 war plants last night.

Residents of 350 municipalities were urged to conserve gas wherever possible by postponing wash day and giving up bathing temporarily.

The lowest reported official Ohio temperature Sunday morning was six below zero at Dayton.

The only major cities not affected by the gas shutoff were in industrial northeastern Ohio, including Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Warren, Youngstown and Massillon.

The company said resumption of service to the plants depended on the mercury's continuing its upward climb and effectiveness of the fuel conservation campaign.

A company spokesman said gas was shut off from industries rather than residences because of customers' health.

Towns affected by the shortage include: Toledo, Columbus, Parma, Dayton, Shelby, Springfield, Coshocton, Sidney, Bowling Green, Wilmington, Zanesville, Cambridge, Newark, Lancaster, Marion, Delaware, Marion, Mount Vernon, Mansfield, Upper Sandusky, Washington Court House and part of Cincinnati.

The Dayton area was one of the hardest hit, with five plants closed and 7,000 to 10,000 workers idle.

RED CROSS CHAPTER'S PART IN WAR

Sewing Room Turns Out Vast Quantities

The most extensive work of Salem's Red Cross chapter, the service requiring the largest number of regular workers, is production—done by volunteers who spend many hours every week making surgical dressings for Army and Navy hospitals, surgical and hospital garments and knitting of warm articles of apparel for the armed forces.

Two of the branches of production—surgical dressings and knitting—are directed by women who had charge of those services during the first World War. Mrs. Stanton Heck leads the surgical dressings division and Mrs. Louis Blooming leads the knitting.

General head of production is Mrs. James Atchison, who directly supervises the sewing activities of the large group of women who make a part of their contribution to the effort.

100 Women Sew Every Week

Approximately 150 women from Damascus and Winona form the basement sewing room at the Memorial building every week. The amount of completed work turned out by these women is unbelievably large.

Sewing was the first Red Cross project of this war for the local chapter, starting in September, 1940, as British war relief with only a small group of workers. After Pearl Harbor it became foreign war relief and work for the American armed forces increased.

In the last year the women have turned out 2,277 garments and 12 complete baby layettes, which were used in Salem. They have made, filled and sent 425 Army kit bags to servicemen at their ports of embarkation. The bags, costing one dollar each to fill, contain a sewing kit, shoe shine cloth, soap and soap box, pencil and paper and other items the soldier or sailor will use on the trip.

To Provide 1,440 Kitbags

This year the local chapter has been asked to provide 1,440 kitbags so the 425 figure of last year will be $1440 this year—on one item alone. Cost of materials for war relief is borne by the national Red Cross but all other materials, such as the articles required to fill the kit bags, must be paid for by the local chapter. And now the chapter has received a new request for 1000 Navy kit bags.

Workers have just shipped 432 of the kits, part of the new quota.

Since last September the Salem unit has done sewing for Camp Reynolds, Greenville, Pa., and Deshon General Hospital at Butler, Pa., military hospitals which are serviced by the area which includes Salem.

Men's bedjackets, bedside bags, hot water bottle covers, fracture pillows and neck pillows, operating gowns, and many other items have been completed for the hospitals. In addition, the women found time, just before Christmas, to make 50 girls' dresses to send to the Fairmount Children's home.

Completes 22,000 Garments

Before their time was devoted to sewing for the armed forces, the women made operating gowns, children's pajamas, skirts, overalls, slips, nightshirts, gowns, blouses and dresses which were sent in huge shipments to civilian war victims in all the allied nations. Warehouses of the Red Cross at shipping centers are well-stocked yet with garments which are sent as rapidly as possible to the places where they are most needed.

Way Is Open Now

Since March 5, 1940, the local chapter has completed more than 22,000 garments including layettes, hospital shirts and operating gowns, utility bags, hot water bottle covers, women's and girls' skirts, children's and adults' pajamas, children's quilts, toddlers packs, men's and boys' shirts.

This branch of the Red Cross, like so many, goes on in peacetime as well as in war. In peacetime the articles go to aid civilian victims of disaster and distress, hospitalized veterans and needy persons.

Special Services Held At Columbian Church

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 14—Special evangelistic services are in progress at the Church of the Nazarene, Union st. and Lisbon road, with Rev. Janie Bradford of Washington, Pa., as the speaker. The campaign continues until Feb. 20 with meetings every night at 7:30 with the exception of Saturday. Rev. Clarence J. Haas is the pastor.

Hesters To W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Emmett Hollenshead entertained members of the W. C. T. U. Friday afternoon. Devotions were led by Mrs. Isabelle Brown.

Reports were given of the months work by directors. Reports of the recent County Institute in Salem were given and reports of the captains showed a tie for this month with 77 points each. Five new members were added to the roll. Lunch was served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Edith Wycoff and Mrs. John Todd.

Past Noble Grands club will meet in the I. O. O. F. hall at 3 tonight.

Manages Lumber Company

Your Income Tax

Get All Your Figures First

(First Of A Series)

Making out your 1943 income tax report will be an easier job if you do three things before starting to fill in the return.

1. Write on a work sheet the figures you will need for the return.

2. Put on work sheet the various amounts of your allowable deductions.

3. Carefully read the instructions that accompany your return. The figures you need for filling in the return are: Total income in 1943 before withholding taxes; the amount of income and Victory taxes withheld from your wages; your tax on 1942 income and the portion of it you paid last March and June; and the tax you paid, if any, with declaration of estimated tax Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

Statement of Earnings

Your employer should have given you a statement of your 1943 wages before withholding and also the amount withheld for taxes. (You will want to list on the work sheet other income such as bonuses, commissions, interest, dividends and annuities).

Figures giving the amount of your tax on 1942 income and what you paid on the 1942 tax last year should have been received in the envelope that contained your 1943 tax blank. The slip that gives you those figures is Form No. 1125. Save the slip and send it back to the collector with your return.

Another important factor to remember is that certain kinds of income are exempt from income tax and need not be reported. Among these are:

Proceeds from life insurance paid because of the death of the insured. Money received through accident or health insurance.

Deductions Allowed

Social Security old age benefit payments.

Allowances for injuries and sickness resulting from active service in the armed forces of any country. Gifts and inheritances.

Don't brush off the job of listing allowable deductions as just another taxpayers' headache. Taking deductions may save you a substantial sum. Among the more common deductions are necessary business or work expenses, deductions for payments of taxes, for contributions to charitable, religious and educational organizations, for losses from fire, storm, theft and bad debts.

And don't forget deductions for interest paid on debts, for alimony payments and for extraordinary medical expenses. (Tomorrow: Deductible Expenses.)

Home Insulation Is War-Time Necessity

Fortification of the home against the hazards of a fuel shortage is a move dictated by prudence and patriotism.

Now, more than ever, homeowners are studying the value of insulation as a conservation and health-safeguarding measure. Insulation is no longer a luxury; it is a war time necessity. Homeowners who install adequate insulation are performing a patriotic service. They are saving fuel for the war effort and protecting the health of their families. The government in removing credit restrictions to allow 36 months or more for payment of insulation jobs, has recognized the importance of voluntary self-rationing of fuel during war time.

Recent tests at the National Bureau of Standards show that a wood lath partition filled with mineral wool will stop the passage of fire for one hour. After this long period of time, the studs were still able to carry their load.

Early Purchases Advised by Salona

The Salona Supply Co., hardware department on W. Pershing st., is experiencing the earliest buying of seed in their history, and, according to the management, it's wise buying in many cases.

Hybrid seed corn is scarce. Right now Salona has plenty but those that wait too long may be disappointed. The same condition may develop with some garden seeds although The Salona Supply Co., has stocked their full allotment.

Wire and wire fencing of different kinds is another item that should have the immediate attention. The Salona has a shipment that will be ready for delivery any day.

With nearly all gardening and farm implements and tools allotted to dealers on past years' sales it's wise to arrange for what you need early as extra demand on any item it's certain to create a shortage.

Lei Smith's Keep Your Car Running

You may think your car old and shabby looking but it's likely worth much more than you think. Many cars purchased three or four years ago will sell today for all they cost you on any used car lot, unless it's beyond repair.

It does pay big dividends to keep your car in good mechanical repair and finish. Never was there a time when those few dollars spent mean so much and the best is you can still get genuine factory repair parts if you patronize a reliable dealer such as Smith's garage at Third and Vine, Plymouth-Chrysler dealers.

Smiths operate a complete garage. No work is so large or none so small it does not get the best at attention.

WELLSVILLE HERE TUESDAY, GAME IN STRUTHERS FRIDAY

Quakers Are Favored Over Bengals, But Big Red Will Prove Tough

Two games are booked for the Salem Quakers in the next to the last week of the basketball season—one tomorrow night here with the Bengals from Wellsville, and another Friday night in the Struthers gymnasium.

Salem will go into Tuesday's test favorites to win but things will be about even when they travel to Struthers Friday. Wellsville, coached this year by John Cabas, has had an unimpressive season that was hindered by the mid-season loss of four starting players.

The team hasn't been able to recuperate from the loss of the four seniors. The Bengals starting lineup, which includes Stewart, Carter, Ryan, Handley and Lascola, doesn't have a veteran from last year and is composed of players who didn't see much action during the first half of the present season.

Comparison of Teams

Among the eight defeats suffered by Wellsville two were against teams that have met the Quakers this year. A comparison on this basis is possible and gives Salem a considerable edge. Lisbon defeated Wellsville in a close game while Salem experienced little trouble in downing the Blue Devils here. In the games Salem played with East Liverpool the Potiers defeated them once by six points and again by just four. Wellsville found the Potiers more difficult and lost by more than 30 points.

Another disadvantage for the Bengals is the Quaker floor, which is much smaller than the new, roomy gym at Wellsville.

The meet the invaders, Coach Brown plans to use his newest and most successful combination. At forward again will be Frank Enriken and Mutt Schaeffer. Walt Brian will be at center and Francis Lanney will work with Jimmie Appelman at guards.

Brown's charges have shown exceptional improvement in the last month and the Quaker mentor is grooming the squad through these last three games in serious preparation for the coming tournament, which starts in early March. Brown has succeeded in distributing the scoring power in the last three or four games so that high pointage is available now from almost any position.

Struthers Will Be Tough

The Tuesday game will find the Quakers favored to win, but the picture will be slightly different when they arrive in Struthers Friday. The Big Red has been having one of its best seasons and now boasts a record of 12 wins and six losses. A potent factor in the game Friday may be the size and shape of the Struthers gym, which will present real trouble for the Quakers. The gym is similar to the one encountered at Ravenna, with an overhanging track that cuts the corners of the playing floor and an especially low ceiling that limits the shots to some extent.

The game with Wellsville is scheduled for 8:45 and will be preceded by the usual preliminary between reserve teams. Official for the contest will be Al Sebastian of Youngstown.

Kentucky Derby Dust

Can Pukka Gin Break Jinx?

By FRANK ECK

AP Features Sports Writer
NEW YORK.—They may have put her hex on Lt. Col. C. V. (Sonny) Whitney's Pukka Gin by tabbing the long-striding son of Firehorn as a good thing for the Kentucky Derby.

C. V., who came through the battle of El Alamein without a scratch in 1942, hopes he doesn't have to apply the word scratch to his two-year-old star of last season. The Colonel has had all kinds of luck in racing but when it comes Derby Day it's all bad. He never won the Blue Grass classic.

Few forget the two best horses he ever owned—Equipose and the filly Top Flight, two of the greatest of all time. Both were made Derby future book favorites but neither reached the barrier.

Ekkie, still among the all-time money winners with $338,610 won on the strength of 29 triumphs in 51 starts, was all set to cop the 1931 Derby but on the eve of the race he wrenched his back in his stall.

Fastest Mile On Record

He didn't go to the post the rest of '31 but he proved his greatness in 1932 by winning his first seven starts, losing his eighth by a neck when he gave away 23 pounds to Flucky Play in the Arlington Handicap. "The greatest horse I ever raced," says Whitney, Ekkie's mile in 1:34 2/5 at Arlington still stands as the fastest on record.

Then there was Top Flight. She won all seven starts as a two-year-old in 1931 and her $219,000 in earnings was tops that year. But when the run for the roses rolled around in 1932 Top Flight wasn't ready to argue with colts.

Placed back in competition with the fillies, Top Flight took down five purses out of nine and in her brief career of two seasons, she won $275,900.

Dad Won Derby Twice

She was better than Regret, the only filly ever to win the Derby. Regret, incidentally, ran for Sonny's father, Harry Payne Whitney, in the same famous Eton blue and brown-topped silks. She scored in 1915. Whiskery, 1927 Derby winner, was also owned by Sonny's father whose colors won four million dollars in 25 years and led the turf's money winners six different times.

Sonny's aunt, Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the famous Greentree Stable, also has won the Derby twice—with Twenty Grand in 1931 and Shut Out in 1942. Now Sonny comes up with Pukka Gin, his best possibility since the days of Equipose and Top Flight.

Pukka Gin may not belong in the same breath with Ekkie and Top Flight but the Gin impressed in several races last fall. He made Platter look like a plater in the mile Champagne at Belmont and other trailers in the race were Occupy, the Futurity winner, Pensive and Pressure. Later in the Ardley at Jamaica, Pukka Gin bowed to Weyanoke but came on fast after being about 15 lengths out of it.

Youth Outshoots Men, But Dad Gets the 'Bird'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Dewey Wylie asked his 10-year-old son, Douglas, to go along to the Knoxville Gun club trapshoot just for the ride.

Marksmen of the American Trapshooters association were vying for a prize—a fine looking turkey. To make up a team and to please the youngster, someone asked him to shoot.

Douglas shouldered his first shotgun, banged away and scored perfect bullseyes. He outshot seven men to win the turkey but his father has been getting the "bird" ever since.

OHIO STATE LEAGUE READY TO OPERATE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—The Ohio State League today had become the first local vote to get back into organized baseball since the start of the war forced most of the small minors to suspend operations.

Six Ohio cities voted yesterday to organize the circuit as a Class D league and operate in 1944 with a 130-game schedule.

Members will be Lima, Marion, Zanesville, Springfield, Middletown and Newark. The season will run from either May 2 or 3 to Labor day and there will be a Shaughnessy play-off among the leaders at the end of the regular campaign.

There also will be a mid-season All-Star game.

Four of the clubs came into the organization meeting with definite player tie-ups with major league outfits but difficulty arose over the Newark-Cincinnati Reds agreement when Bill McGorry, in charge of Red fans, asserted the Cincinnati club would not go along with any league in which the home team kept all of the gate receipts.

The new league voted, however, 4 to 2, to retain the home team take-all provision in the constitution and the matter will be taken up again with the Reds.

Final arrangements have not been made for any major league help for Marion and Lima but Joe Donnelly of Columbus, elected president of the league, asserted he felt sure such agreements could be reached since at least five major league teams do not have any Class D affiliations.

Asks Brown Deferment

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—President Howard Bevis says Ohio State university is seeking a deferment for Coach Paul Brown, who recently was classified 1-A by his Massillon draft board.

"We are not asking Paul's deferment because he is a football coach," Bevis said, "but because he is a part of the physical instruction forces of the university."

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Billy Gibbons, old Mike Gibbons' son and a pretty good middleweight himself, recently returned after a year as a ship worker in Alaska and promptly joined the Marines—probably to get warm. Billy is Mike's fifth son to become a Marine and Nat (Ring magazine) Fleischer says that puts St. Paul, Minn., in the No. 1 spot for having brother-boxers in the five armed forces. Besides the five Gibbonses St. Paul has four O'Hara brothers, one of whom was in the battle of Tarawa. Parson Gil Dodes, the miler, has named his new son John Lloyd after Gil's two coaches, Jack Ryder and Lloyd Hahn. "The Russians, who are such rough, rugged fighters in war, stage their boxing matches according to strictly collegiate rules and frequently stop bouts because of minor cuts."

CUT LOOMS IN CANNED ITEMS

So Declares WFA Official At Meet; Farm Worker Deferments Discussed

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Draft boards must cancel farm deferments unless the registrant "is in fact irreplaceable," the War Food Administration is planning an emergency labor force, and civilians are in for a drastic cut in canned fruits and vegetables, the food processors' conference was told today by government officials.

Col. Francis V. Keesling, chief liaison and legislative officer of Selective Service, in a speech prepared for delivery to the conference said, "local boards must re-appraise the situation and come over these occupational deferments in the light of the present circumstances, namely, whether the farm registrant is in fact necessary to the farm, regularly engaged in farming, and is in fact irreplaceable."

"This must be done . . . not only to insure justice being done to activities other than farming, but also so that we can obtain the best material for the armed forces while at the same time cutting down to that extent the number of pre-Pearl Harbor farmers that would otherwise have to be inducted."

Mobile Labor Force
In another prepared address, Col. Philip G. Bruton, director of labor for the War Food Administration, told conferees the WFA was planning a "mobile task force of 126,000 able-bodied, experienced interstate and foreign workers" with workers shifted to areas of critical need to assist local labor forces in production and harvesting of essential food and fiber. They will not remain permanently in any community.

Col. Bruton listed the following conditions for use of this force in food processing plants:
1. That the workers are already in the area where the need exists.
2. That they are not needed at the time in agriculture in the area.
3. That the War Manpower Commission has certified the need for such workers.

In an address last night, C. W. Kitchen, deputy director of the office of distribution of the WFA, said civilians face a 43 per cent cut in canned fruits and a 19 per cent cut in canned vegetables during 1944.

He said a new order signed Friday allotted civilians 17,000,000 cases of 12 canned fruit items against 30,000,000 last year; and 104,000,000 cases of 14 vegetable items compared with 126,000,000.

Kitchen said the order requires growers to set aside for military and lend-lease use during 1944 about 7 per cent of the 1942-43 average production of fruits; and about 50 per cent of their vegetables.

He added the office of distribution is working on ceiling prices for major fresh fruits and vegetables in addition to those already in effect.

and mist breaking up the air cover which previously had kept enemy tanks in check.

Yesterday the ground was soft, making movements of vehicles difficult, and the weather, while colder, became somewhat clearer, allowing impatient British and American airmen to resume regular patrols.

Patrol activity on the ground continued on all the other fronts, but many mountain passes were blocked by snow on the Eighth army front.

Germans Use New Plane
American Spitfire pilots reported the German air force had thrown its newest single-engine fighter, an improved Focke-Wulf 190 with an air-cooled motor, into the battle of the Anzio beachhead.

While the weather was sufficiently good to put the usual big air cover over the beachhead, it was not good enough to allow the heavy Flying Fortresses and Liberators to operate.

Enemy vehicles and troop concentrations both around the beachhead and in the Cassino area were attacked yesterday by bombers. Fighters maintained battle line patrols.

Bombers over northern Italy blasted the Bucine viaduct south of Florence.

Approximately 800 sorties were flown by Allied planes yesterday while only about 30 enemy aircraft were active over the beachhead area, four being destroyed. Two Allied planes were lost.

A confident order of the day issued over the weekend by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark urged his embattled Fifth army forces on both fronts to "an even greater effort."

"The next step in successful operations which we have just commenced is for our two forces to join hands for a victorious march into Rome and to the north."

Child Is Strangled
BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 14.—The 15-month-old son of Capt. and Mrs. Jarvis Strong of Oberlin, O., strangled yesterday, hanged from his bed by a sleeping garment.

The baby was left in the care of a 15-year-old girl who discovered the death, Coroner William McBratney said.

$500,000 Loss Seen In Mansfield Fire

(By Associated Press)
Mansfield, Feb. 14.—Three brick buildings comprising half a downtown business block were in ruins today despite a 10-hour fight against flames by firemen of three cities.

Damage was estimated unofficially at $500,000.

Near-zero weather turned the spray from fire hose into sheets of ice from the time the Mansfield fire department was called Sunday morning until the flames were controlled late in the afternoon. Shelby and Ashland firemen helped in the fight.

Starting in a cafe, the fire raged one two-story and two three-story buildings housing a furniture store, two restaurants, cigar store, the Richmond county Federation of Labor office and a law office.

Farmers Asked To Plant More Seeds Per Acre

COLUMBUS, Feb. 14.—Ohio farmers were advised today to plant more seeds per acre instead of plowing more land than usual to increase production for wartime needs.

John A. Shipper, Ohio State university extension agronomist, said 13,000 to 14,000 corn plants to the acre—average planting is 9,000—would add about eight bushels to the normal yield.

YANKS BOMB WAKE ISLAND AGAIN

IN WHAT MAY BE a series of pre-invasion raids, American bombers have raided Wake Island for the third time in ten nights, according to the official Japanese news agency Domei. The Jap-held island, nearest enemy base to Pearl Harbor, is pictured here after a recent raid. Barbed wire and trenches (1) skirt Wake's beaches; enemy planes burn (2) close to the runway; hangars (3) present good targets (International)

Discuss Gym Bond Issue
EAST LIVERPOOL, Feb. 14.—Board of education members will determine tonight whether a 2-mill tax levy or possibly a $50,000 bond issue will be submitted at the May 9 primary election for completion of a partially constructed high school auditorium-gymnasium on which work was stopped because of lack of funds after $150,000 was spent.

Ends Bottleneck

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

oning with Russia is thus brought appreciably nearer by the fall of this stronghold. Hitler's strength in that part of the war zone is dwindling rapidly.

LITTLE FINLAND is in the position of making peace quickly or of accepting a worse fate. The Helsinki government fully recognizes this, as is indicated by extreme activity pointing to possible negotiations between Finland and Moscow.

Significance would seem to attach to the fact that Dr. J. V. Paasikivi, who helped negotiate peace between Finland and Russia in 1940, has arrived unexpectedly in Stockholm, as have Finnish Minister of the Interior Eero Ruuth and former Foreign Minister Erko. Stockholm is a logical place for a peace parley.

The capture of Luga ranks among the great victories of the Russian-German war. This is one of the keys to the turning operation that the Muscovites are now in process of carrying out against the northern wing of the Nazi front which now rests on the Baltic sea north of Narva in Estonia—and you'll need your maps for this.

Luga is a strategic center, lying half way along the 150-mile stretch of railway between Leningrad to the north and the important junction of Pskov to the southwest. The Russians, having raised the siege of Leningrad after 900 days and a half years, have been driving southward astride the railway on a front of more than a hundred miles, stretching between Lake Ilmen and Lake Peipus.

What the Soviet army apparently is aiming at is to turn westward around the southern tip of Lake Peipus (or Lake Pskov, as that extension of the lake is called) and head into Estonia and Latvia. This would cut the German line and threaten the northern end with destruction. It also would jeopardize the Nazi front to the south.
